Replying to a public demand by Councilman John A. White for full details of her charges of drunkenness on the floor of city council, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the Atlanta Woman's Civic Council, Thursday night made public copies of a letter she has written to Mr. White in which she explicitly names one alderman who, she says, was drunk at a recent session of city council, calling by names another alderman and two councilmen whom she described as "unfit to sit in the session."

At the same time Mrs. Andrews proclaimed that "the fight to free Atlanta from the rule of the bootlegger and the undesirable is on to a finish."

The letter to Mr. White adds that "one alderman has admitted that the charge against him is true and has said that he regretted it sincerely."

While Mrs. Andrews' letter called the four city officials involved in the matter by name, The Constitution presents the text of her communication below with the names deleted by reason of the fact that publication of them might be libelous.

Full Airing Seen.
However, indications were that the matter will eventually be given full public airing, in view of a statement Thursday night from Councilman White that he will make the entire affair a matter of formal record—thus permitting newspaper publication—by reading the letter on the floor of council Monday week.

Mr. White added that "if the charges are supported by affidavits" he will call for a councilman investigation.

"I will not supply any affidavits in support of my charges," Mrs. Andrews told The Constitution when informed of Mr. White's statement. "Mr. White called on me through the press to supply details of my charges in order that he might prosecute offenders, and I have supplied these details openly and fearlessly. Councilman White started this thing by demanding a statement from me; now let him finish it."

The original charges were made by Mrs. Andrews at a meeting of the Civic Council recently in protest against a reported movement to elect Police Captain Grover C. Fain to succeed Chief of Police E. L. Jett should the latter decide to retire on pension.

"I am ready to purge council of any unbecoming members, and stand solidly behind my letter to Mrs. Andrews," Mr. White declared. "If she can prove her charges, I shall insist on

Half-Century Fight at Dramatic Climax as Town Seeks To Forestall Injunction.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 6.—(AP)—Chattanooga's half century fight to open Broad street through the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad yards reached a dramatic climax early tonight when Commissioner Ed Bass and a crew of workmen began demolition of brick buildings on the right of way on Ninth street.

The proposal to open the street has been bitterly fought by the railroad, which for years has blocked legislation in the general assembly, authorizing condemnation of the property needed for opening the street. A few months ago railroad officials agreed to opening of the street as lessees of the property, a jury of view was appointed, damages assessed and bonds authorized and sold.

A few weeks ago the state of Georgia, which owns the fee in the property, filed a petition of certiorari and supercedas in circuit court here to estop the city, but this was discharged. Following this action Georgia officials announced that they would take the case to the supreme court, and for this reason the city officials determined that they would no longer brook interference. Hence to forestall an injunction, demolition of the buildings was started tonight, and by tomorrow morning it is expected that sufficient space will be cleared to start extension of the street. Occupants of the buildings had been given until tomorrow to vacate but all were out today.

What action the state of Georgia will take is problematical, although Attorney General George M. Nathan declared yesterday that the fight would be taken to the supreme court of the United States.

Broad Street Opened.
Broad street was opened tonight at 6 o'clock, city employees at that hour beginning the work of demolishing the one-story buildings which separated the southern terminus of the street from the Western and Atlantic yards.

The opening came as a surprise. Few people had been notified, but in a few minutes after the work was started a vast throng crowded the wide street and watched the workmen as bricks began to fall from the rooms and walls of the buildings. The work will continue all night.

City Commissioner Ed Bass directed the workers, with the entire com-

Miss Alice Irby Dies;

Law Are Severely Injured.

Miss Alice Irby, 24, of Smyrna, was killed shortly before 10 o'clock Thursday night in an automobile accident on the Marietta road between Bolton station and the Chattahoochee river.

H. F. Wood, her brother-in-law, and Mrs. H. F. Wood, the dead woman's sister, are both seriously injured, physicians at Grady hospital believing that both have suffered concussion of the brain.

Mr. Wood, who was at the wheel, was driving from Atlanta to Smyrna along the Marietta road when they approached the river, just north of Bolton station. The road was down-grade and witnesses reported that the motor car was humming along at a good clip.

Suddenly, according to reports, another automobile backed into the road ahead of Wood's car, turned toward the oncoming automobile and the full glare of the unexpected lights fell upon Wood's face. The glaring light blinded him.

Wood's car left the road as he flung on the brakes in a desperate attempt to stop. Crashing into a telephone pole the car wrecked itself, crashing the windshield glass. Miss Irby died almost instantly.

Thirteen Others Hurt.
Thirteen others were injured. Miss Helen Hudson, of a Luckie street address, suffered deep lacerations on both arms and legs and a possible fracture on the skull; Herman Moore, 261 West Sixth street, lacerations and bruises about the head; Jeff Carr, of West Tampa, Fla., minor cuts and bruises.

Miss Helen Hudson, Herman Moore and Jeff Carr narrowly escaped death when the light coupe in which they were riding turned over on Spring street near Sixteenth street.

Moore Is Arrested.
Both Miss Hudson and Moore were rushed to Grady hospital in the private automobile of E. B. Hinds, 606 West Peachtree street, who was assisted and accompanied by C. A. Fugle, of 547 West Peachtree street. According to a report filed at police station by Call Officers J. H. Chalkley and G. B. Williams, Carr, who was said to have been badly bruised and cut, had left the scene of the accident before officers arrived.

Moore, driver of the car, told officers that his coupe was sidwiped by another car which did not stop. Upon investigation, officers placed Moore

Wilkins Flight to Arctic Delayed as Best Airplane Is Damaged in Take-Off

BY FREDERICK L. EARP.

North American Newspaper Alliance.)
Fairbanks, Alaska, May 6.—The Detroit Arctic expedition's monoplane Alaskan was badly damaged in trying to take off from Fairbanks for Point Barrow at 7:45 this morning. Captain George H. Wilkins, commander of the expedition and Pilot Ben Eielson who were in the plane escaped injury but the plane's right wing was torn and the propeller broken.

The plane had made one run down the field still soft from the rains of yesterday, without gaining sufficient momentum to rise from the ground. Part of her cargo was taken out and Eielson started her down the field the second time. The big ship was moving only 15 miles an hour when she struck a soft place in the ground and lurched and crashed heavily on her right side. The right wing collapsed and the landing gear buckled. Both pilot and navigator crawled out of the damaged plane a moment later, neither having suffered so much as a bruise.

May Use Detrolter.
Captain Wilkins new plans for a hop off for Barrow as soon as possible in the three-motored monoplane Detrolter, taking with him only Ben Eielson as pilot, and a mechanic, probably Charlie M. Wisley.

"We must find the land before we name it," Captain Wilkins said. "The naming of any new land discovered is the exclusive function of the Detroit Arctic expedition's board of control of which I am a member. But it must be distinctly understood

Compromise Measure Is Judiciary Committee.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, May 6.—An increase of salaries of federal judges was made practically a certainty at the present session of congress today when the senate, by a vote of 66 to 8, passed a compromise bill which is identical with a measure approved by the house judiciary committee.

The increases are somewhat less than provided in bills originally introduced. House leaders have scheduled the bill in its present form for action before congress adjourns.

As passed by the senate the bill will add upwards of $500,000 annually to the amount expended by the government in payment of judges' salaries. The bill increases the salaries of federal district judges throughout the country from $5,500 to $10,000, circuit judges from $8,500 to $12,500, justices of the supreme court of the United States from $14,500 to $20,000, and the chief justice of the supreme court from $15,000 to $20,000. Salaries of justices of the supreme court of the District of Columbia and the court of appeals of the district are increased to $10,000 and $12,500, respectively, their present salaries being $7,500 and $8,500, with the preceding justices receiving $500 additional.

Salaries of members of the board of general appraisers are boosted from $9,000 to $10,000, judges of the court of customs appeals from $8,500 to $12,000 and judges of the court of claims from $7,500 to $12,500.

Those voting against the bill included three republicans and five democrats. They were: Borah, republican, of Idaho; Howell and Norris, republicans, of Nebraska; Blease, democrat, of South Carolina; Caraway, democrat, of Arkansas; Harris, democrat, of Georgia; Trammell, democrat, of Florida; and Walsh, democrat, of Montana.

FIREBUG DEVICE

Vigilance of Bombs
Averts Probable Loss of Life and Panic in Hospital.

Vigilance on the part of Charles Bombo, owner of a storehouse and dwelling on Butler street, within 50 feet of Grady hospital, early Thursday night thwarted activities of an alleged firebug and averted probable loss of several lives and a panic among the hundreds of patients at the municipal infirmary.

The incendiary—concerning whose identity police state they have clues which will probably result in an arrest today—had contrived an ingenious device for setting fire to the store and dwelling owned by Bombo. Only prompt action on the part of Bombo prevented what might have resulted in a disaster.

Lives on Second Floor.
The buildings in question are located at 102 North Butler street, a two-story home, and 104 North Butler, a soft drink and confectionery store at the corner of Coca-Cola place. The store is operated by Ben Brody, who lives on South Pryor street. Downstairs the dwelling is vacant; Bombo occupies an apartment on the second floor and Mrs. P. W. Rutledge also has rooms there.

When Bombo started up to his apartment Thursday night he scented the odor of kerosene and saw the flickering light of a candle shining into the hallway from a room downstairs directly behind the partition of the store. Rushing to the door, he beheld a burning candle fixed on top of a large wooden box which was filled with paper, excelsior and other inflammable materials saturated with kerosene.

Plaster Chiseled Away.
He extinguished the candle and summoned police. Detectives W. J. Stephens and J. Hiram Davis responded. Their investigation disclosed that the plastering had been chiseled away from the partition wall between the room and the store. A quantity of kerosene had been poured into this wall and through the holes into the store. The detectives also found that entrance to the dwelling had been gained by tearing the screen from one of the windows downstairs. This window was shielded by high walls in such a location as to prevent the intruder from being discovered as he forced his way inside.

Fire Chief W. B. Cody was notified immediately and a thorough investigation will be made.

Had the downstairs of the dwelling been fired while Bombo and Mrs.

Women Are Favorite Study Of 32 Princeton Seniors

Princeton, N. J., May 6.—Women are the favorite study of 32 members of this year's graduating class at Princeton and twice that number, plus one, would marry for money, but 142 would not.

Twenty-two seniors answered the latter question with a question, "For how much?"

These and other interesting facts were made public today in the annual senior statistics.

Richard R. Quay, of Sewickley, Pa., was voted the handsomest as well as the most respected man in the class, and was second choice as the most representative Princetonian and the most thorough gentleman.

MINERS ARE ROUTED

Strikers Stone Street

Glasgow, May 6.—(AP)—The east side of the city of Glasgow was the scene of prolonged rioting today in connection with the general strike. Several persons were injured severely and many others were more or less seriously hurt.

Sixty persons were arrested. The storm center of the strife was the district between the two tramway depots in Ruby street and Paton street. It was reported that a number of volunteers for tramway service were housed in the depots overnight Wednesday. Early this morning a party of miners from the neighboring collier districts marched into the city to see about it.

On their arrival they stormed the Ruby street depot. The small police guard promptly summoned aid. One hundred constables arrived soon afterward and attacked the miners with their clubs. There were several stiff fights in the streets before the district was cleared.

Rioters Begin Looting.
Meanwhile small bands of rioters went into adjoining streets and began looting. This, however, was suppressed, and there was quiet for several hours.

This afternoon large crowds gathered outside the depots, most of their elements were hostile. Nothing occurred, however, until tonight, when the mob got ugly and made several threatening rushes and showered missiles on the police.

Amid the shower stones, bottles and other things, and a wild tumult of hoots and yells, the police charged repeatedly, swinging their clubs with vigor upon the heads and bodies of their assailants. In each charge the police captured a batch of prisoners, who were bundled into motorcars and hurried away to police stations.

Most of those taken were youths. The disturbance lasted throughout the evening, but before midnight the police had cleared the neighborhood of the tramway depots and quiet prevailed.

A police sergeant who was struck on the head with a brick still was unconscious late tonight. During the looting, one man was thrown through a shop window and is reported to be in a critical condition. Shoe shops

The Careful Buyer Is an Advertisement Reader

Advertisements no longer announce "A Startling Display of Hosiery," but they do tell of wonderful values at decidedly low prices—very important items for the buyer to consider.

Hosiery, once so completely concealed, and now so openly revealed, requires excellent quality and many pairs in shades of color to match the gowns of midday. A considerable item of expense is involved, necessitating careful buying.

The careful buyer of anything is an advertisement reader, and the advertisement reader pays strict attention to the advertisements in The Constitution, because The Constitution goes into the home every morning when there is time to read. Never neglect reading the advertisements in The Constitution.

Evelyn Bennett Gets Divorce FORMER FOLLIES BEAUTY TO WED HEATH And License To Marry Again

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 6.—(AP)—M. Heath, 28, of New York. Evelyn Farris Bennett, former Follies beauty, was divorced from Raymond Bennett in circuit court here early this afternoon and 30 minutes later had secured a license to marry James

The license was issued to Mrs. Bennett personally, she signing the bond required with both her name and that of Heath. The decree granted today marked the culmination of the fourth divorce petition against Bennett, the first being filed here two years ago, later being dismissed upon reconciliation. Several months ago she filed a second suit in a local court but abandoned it before trial and filed a third at Tampa, Fla. She was granted a divorce in Florida but returned to Chattanooga within a week and re-married Bennett. The fourth suit was filed about 30 days ago.

Owner of Chicago Hotel Is Indicted In Gang Probe

Chicago, May 6.—(AP)—Indictment of the owner of the hotel where William McGinnis, "hanging prosecutor," and his two gangster companions were slain ten days ago today was the first action in the grand jury investigation of a special grand jury investigating crime in Chicago and Cook county. He was charged with keeping a disorderly house.

Shortly afterward, three more indictments were returned in connection with a recent gang killing and seven others for conspiracy to violate the state prohibition act. Meanwhile, detectives scoured the city for witnesses wanted to testify before the special grand jury regarding an alleged "pardon mill" through which, officials charged, scores of Joliet convicts had obtained their freedom on parole.

Coroner Oscar Wolff, in charge of the inquest into McGinnis' death, who had previously appeared before the grand jury at the request of Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney and his political opponent, late today testified before the grand jury at his request. The inquest is to be resumed tomorrow.

Adverse Report Given Virginian Rail Merger Plan

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—Opponents of the proposed acquisition by the Norfolk & Western of the Virginian railway, 450-mile coal-carrying road in Virginia and West Virginia, won a partial victory today when Haskell C. Davis, the examiner who heard the case, recommended in his report to the interstate commerce commission that the merger be disapproved. The commission has yet to pass on the report.

Objection to the proposed control by a 900-year lease was based primarily on the ground that a unification of the two systems would eliminate all existing competition and result in a condition inimical to the public interest.

Although officials of the Norfolk & Western had testified that the two roads were connecting and not competing lines, the examiner said it appeared inevitable from the record that they were in direct competition with each other.

WAYWARD SON OF TOBACCO MAN GETS ONLY INCOME

New York, May 6.—(AP)—While four other children of Robert B. Dula, former vice president of the American Tobacco company, were bequeathed each one-fifth of the residue of his estate outright in his will filed today in surrogate's court, Robert L. Dula was given only the income from his share, the principal being held in trust.

The younger Dula, whose wife recently was awarded a separation and $5,000 yearly alimony, was characterized by Supreme Court Justice Proskauer during the trial as "an idler living on the bounty of his family."

No papers were filed with the will to indicate the value of the estate. The original will left one-third of the estate to Mrs. Josephine C. Dula, the widow, but a codicil revoked this bequest, explaining that she had been amply provided for.

PLANE BLOWS IN; NEW YORK LINE PLANNED TO CITY

The giant Sikorsky two-motor airplane, largest passenger aircraft in the United States, arrived at Candler field late Thursday afternoon from Winston-Salem, N. C. She will remain here for several days, it was stated by Captain Roscoe Turner, pilot, Thursday night.

Representing General Airways, of New York city, Captain Turner is here to arouse interest in the establishment of a flying field for an air route between New York and Atlanta. With the large Sikorsky plane ready to be placed in immediate service, the aviator is enthusiastic. The potential plans specify two stops on the route, Washington and Winston-Salem, where Captain Turner has recently conferred with city officials in an effort to determine the feasibility of the project.

Financial backing has been secured for the establishment of the airway, it was stated, and all that remains to be done is for the city to establish landing facilities, a hangar, and a refueling station. When those things are done, an Atlanta-New York seamer and express air line can be realized.

THIS IS MORNING AFTER FOR TAXI DRIVERS AT 'CUE'

Yesterday was a busy traffic day on the Campbellton road, the main reason being that taxicabs, buses, motor cars of every description were going to and from R. H. Crump's barbecue place, two miles from Lee street, where the Black and White Cab company was giving a big, old-fashioned Georgia barbecue to employees and friends.

What a barbecue it was! Old-timers were there who have been attending barbecues around Atlanta for more than a third of a century. They pronounced yesterday's "cue" the best they ever attended. The meats were done just right and the Brunswick stew was properly flavored; the liquid refreshments were served ice cold and the several hundred guests had the pleasure of enjoying the good things of the day under the many shade trees amidst very pleasant surroundings.

Many notable people were present during the day and the officials of the Black and White company acted as hosts. They saw that everyone was provided with plenty of everything that was good to eat and drink. The occasion was a most successful one.

New York Editor To Speak at Closing Of State University

Herbert Hoover will deliver the baccalaureate address at commencement; Bishop Warren Candler, of Atlanta, will deliver the sermon and Sanders McDaniel, Atlanta attorney, will deliver the alumni oration.

JAKE WELLS SELLS VIRGINIA THEATERS

Norfolk, Va., May 6.—(AP)—Sales of the Wells theatrical interests in Norfolk and Richmond to the Wilmer and Vincent company and the Keith-Albee company as of May 3, was announced today simultaneously here and in New York. The consideration was not announced but was said to be a "large amount." Rumors were that several million dollars were involved.

Theaters included in the deal are six in Norfolk and eight in Richmond. Under the transaction, which has been in process of negotiation for a year, Jake Wells and Otto Wells, members of the Wells, Wilmer, Vincent company, dispose of all their theatrical interests in the two cities. The Wilmer and Vincent Theater company and the Keith-Albee company share equally in the deal.

The sale will be of interest in Atlanta, since Jake Wells for years practically dominated the amusement field here. He built or leased many of Atlanta's best known houses between 1902 and the world war at which time he disposed of his interest to the S. A. Lynch Enterprises. Mr. Wells was the pioneer in bringing vaudeville to Atlanta, and was in complete control of popular priced amusements.

RETURNS OF TAXES SHOW PROSPERITY

That the country as a whole is enjoying exceptional prosperity is shown actual income and are an absolutely by increase in federal income tax returns and customs revenue for 1926, compared to the same period in 1925. Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue for Georgia, pointed out Thursday.

"The substantial increase shown by these figures is irrefutable proof of the prosperity of the country as a whole," said Mr. Rose. "For it must be remembered that the income and profits tax represent a percentage of actual income and are an absolutely accurate gauge of the prosperity of the people as a whole. While the customs revenue is not, of course, as perfect a gauge, it nevertheless shows that the country is spending more money for imports and it must have the money to spend.

"As for Georgia, if she is enjoying her share of the prosperity, well and good. If she isn't, it's her own fault and she should get busy."

The figures cited by Mr. Rose are as follows:

Income and profits tax receipts for April, 1926, $54,206,426, compared to April, 1925, of $45,801,735. For the first four months of 1926 the same source furnished revenue of $1,451,325,140, while the corresponding period one year ago shows $1,241,973,981.

Customs collections for April, 1926, are $47,936,407; for April, 1925, $44,642,408. For the first four months of this year they are $489,462,771, compared to $461,013,259 for the same period in 1925.

The income tax collections for 1926 are at substantially lower levels of rate, since the downward revision of the income tax law, and the gain in total revenue for the year is therefore all the more remarkable, Mr. Rose pointed out.

COUPLE SENTENCED ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

B. W. Stubbett, 39, and his wife, Mrs. Stubbett, alias Mrs. Stella Hopwood, 38, entered pleas of guilty Thursday before Judge G. H. Howard in the second division of Fulton superior court and were sentenced to serve from six to seven years and from four to seven years respectively in the penitentiary.

The two were indicted on three felony counts charging passing of fictitious checks on several well-known department stores in Atlanta. According to signed confessions introduced, Mr. and Mrs. Stubbett would buy a quantity of merchandise and give in payment a check which they knew at the time was void. They are alleged to have received approximately $300 in merchandise from local stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubbett are also alleged to have operated the same scheme in El Paso, Texas, Birmingham, Ala., Miami, Fla., and Charleston, S. C. They are said to have signed a confession sworn to before a notary public in Charleston admitting passing checks in the above named cities.

EDUCATION BOARD AND P. T. A. HEADS SEE SCHOOL FETE

Members of the board of education and Atlanta Parent-Teacher officials were honor guests at the first annual spring festival luncheon of Commercial High school Thursday.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, spoke on the establishment of the Annie T. Wise scholarship fund to aid worthy students. The luncheon was preceded by a fashion show. Music was furnished by the orchestra and mandolin and glee clubs.

Student speakers included Annette Levin, president of the dramatic club; Williams, co-editor, Co-Ed Leader; Annette Maziar, Mary Healey, Isabel Boaz, Meyer Balser, Molly Russ, Jimmie Mims, Alton Sugart and others.

Remarks were made by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, Mrs. C. P. Martin, W. C. State and D. E. Strong, of Detroit. Mich. Edwin Horne, senior president, presided.

CORPORATIONS CALLED TO PAY U. S. TAXES

Corporations operating on a fiscal year basis who filed income tax returns for any period ending in 1923 must file new returns on or before May 15, Josiah S. Rose, collector of internal revenue, stated Thursday.

Mr. Rose said that all such corporations had already been notified of this requirement by mail from his office, but declared that some of the returns were slow in coming in and he stressed the necessity for prompt compliance with the rulings made in Washington, on the part of all affected corporations.

The new returns are required because of an increase of the tax rate under the new law from 12 1/2 to 13 per cent. This increase, Mr. Rose made known because of the elimination of the capital stock tax, which formerly had to be filed as of July 1 each year.

The new returns to be made at this time are necessary because the total tax to be paid must be computed, in so far as the 1925 portion of the period covered is concerned, on the 13 per cent instead of the 12 1/2 per cent basis.

Corporations which file their returns by the calendar year, from January 1 to December 31, are not required to make the new returns, the ruling only applying to those making returns by a fiscal year which ends on some other date. The increased rate also applies only to that portion of the fiscal year falling in 1925.

COLONEL HENDRIX TO RUN FOR SENATE

Colonel Walter G. Hendrix will be a candidate to succeed himself as state senator from the 35th district, it was announced Thursday. It was also reported as probable that he will be a candidate for president of the senate. It is known that many friends are urging him to make the race for the presidency.

Colonel Hendrix has served in both houses of the general assembly and was one of the most popular members of both bodies, making many warm friends among his conferees. He is a former colonel of the Fifth Georgia regiment and had long and varied military experience. He is one of Atlanta's leading lawyers and a business man of wide experience.

The 35th senatorial district is composed of the counties of Fulton, Clayton and Henry. Under the rotation rule, Fulton, the largest county of the three, is permitted to furnish the state senator two consecutive terms.

MAYOR ENFORCES ECONOMY PROGRAM

In furtherance of his economy program Mayor Walter A. Sims Thursday announced the veto of two papers passed Monday by general council. The first was an ordinance providing that collectors and marshals be allowed a fee of 75 cents in addition to their salaries on collection of every five for curbing, sidewalks, streets and real estate. The second provided for employment of an additional workman for Oakland cemetery.

In the first case, the mayor took the position that salaries of the employees of the city are sufficient remuneration in view of the city's financial condition and, in the second, that the present force at Oakland cemetery is sufficient.

Little Billy Saves His Pal From Drowning

News was received Thursday in Atlanta of heroism on the part of little Billy Parks, 5, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parks, of 290 St. Charles avenue. Saturday at the risk of his life little Billy saved his small pal from drowning. They were playing on the bank of a water-filled excavation near his home at 8444 St. Lawrence avenue, Chicago.

Bobby Buchanan, Billy's playmate of the same age, lost his footing and plunged into the water, according to reports, and both cried for help in vain. Billy braced himself on the bank and when Bobby's hand came up he seized it, pulling him to safety. The water was several feet deep and Billy's heroism soon spread over the neighborhood.

Two days passed before newspapermen besieged the home of Billy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Parks, and next day his likeness appeared in Chicago dailies along with items regarding the rescue. Two years ago Billy fell three stories from a flat window and escaped without a scratch. He is a nephew of Dewey Parks, of Miami, Fla., former captain at The Constitution garage.

CRUDE OIL INCREASE REPORTED BY "T. P."

Enormous increase in the production of crude oil and like products is mentioned in the current issue of The Petroleum Age, the semi-monthly publication issued by J. B. Shores, general agent of the Texas & Pacific railway. Crude oil production has increased 132 per cent from 1916 to 1925, says the paper. Other interesting items are entitled "For Coasting Mother Nature Farm Hand Gets $34.38 Per Month With Board," "A Real Texas Steer" and "The Minute Insurance Questionnaire."

TWO-FOLD BLESSINGS SEEN BY EVANGELIST

The Rev. F. Lincome, evangelist of Gary, Ind., was principal speaker at the session of the Georgia Holiness convention at the Free Will Methodist church, 275 Hill street, Thursday night. He is one of the leaders of the faith in America and is taking a prominent part in convention activities.

"Most of our blessings are two-fold," said he. "There are two elements in nature, two in the sun we enjoy; two in the lungs and two works of grace for the soul. Hence, if you follow nature psychology and the Bible you must believe in a second blessing."

"Salvation comes by degrees: First justification, then sanctification and third, glorification. The first saves us from our sins; the second from inbred sin; the third from the presence of sin. Holiness is a trinity consisting of theory, experience and practice. Theory is to be believed by intellect and theoretical holiness has to do with your head, heart and your hand. If this trinity is given properly, it will produce a well-balanced Christian. Emphasis must be placed on experience, for we cannot live without experience."

of All Saints, and others. Later and the Rome Mountain memorial. A special communion service will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and in the afternoon the delegates will visit Avondale at 2 o'clock at St. Philip's cathedral.

THIS RIGHT RESPONSE—"And Jones came and told the people all the words of the Lord; and all the people... said, All the words which the Lord hath said will we do." Ex. 24:3.

A BRIBE TO THE SOUTH?

The Philadelphia Public Ledger is concerned to learn whether the south "can be bribed" with one hundred million dollars. Its query arises from the fact that the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, with its $375,000,000 appropriation, includes the cotton producers along with those in the corn, the cow and the hog-and-hominy belts, and that the south's portion would amount to $100,000,000.

Because most of the western and southern congressmen favor the bill, and the Cotton Growers' association has endorsed it, the Public Ledger says the enactment of the bill in a republican congress depends upon the democrats, especially those of the south.

And, should the southern democrats vote for it, they will "help" batter down the treasury doors, and turn their backs "upon the historic principles of their party," and accept "a bribe to the cotton planter," at least these are the vehement conclusions reached by the Philadelphia Journal.

In view of the fact that the president is "agin the bill" and will veto it, if presented to him, the above recited charges are more windy than weights. The southern democrat may not be wise to hook up with the western bi-partisan bloc behind the McNary-Haugen bill and they may not be hundred per cent consistent with democratic fundamentals in voting for a so-called subsidy, but let it not be forgotten that southern democrats did not create the conditions that threaten the American farmer with eviction from his farm and homestead and southern democrats did not invent the republican policy of bottle-feeding "infant industries" and "fostering the home market" for the manufacturing kings of the east. Whatever heresy affects southern democrats in the matter of subsidies and appetite for treasury treacle was taught to them by the doctrines and practices of republican past-masters.

The eastern journalists and publicists who have the same views as the Philadelphia newspaper do not explain why cotton should be treated as a pariah when treasury aid may be portioned out to corn, cow and hog. There should be no subsidies, pure and simple, to any of them, we agree; but whenever any party or administration, for reasons of political advantage or industrial salvation, goes forth to give largesse from the public funds, we insist upon the square deal. Cotton has quite as much right to answer the "free feed" call as any of the mills of the east or the fields of the west.

HELP THE OLD HEROES.

A genuine thrill of heart-joy is worth the price. Any one with ample means who wants such a thrill can find it in buying a round trip ticket to the reunion of the United Confederate Veterans at Birmingham, May 18 to 20, attaching a subsistence check or bank note, handing over the combination to some old hero of the gray, and bidding him God-speed to the assembly of his tottering comrades for which his soul is yearning without hope.

It will be a small and simple thing to do, but it ought to give a nation of an old rebel a pleasure unpurchasable anywhere but in the south and give to the soul of the veteran a new conviction that his perils in battle so long ago are yet remembered by those who possess the land for which he offered his all, and nearly lost it all.

The tricks of fortune and the remorseless tooth of time have brought many of the south's incomparable fighters in the first 60s to such conditions that unless sympathy and gratitude aid them they cannot enjoy such a blissful reunion as that at Birmingham will be to them. Another year and fewer of these men will be alive to offer the like opportunity to the living.

ADJUTANT ALFALFA.

Among the newcomers that we have naturalized in Georgia in recent years scarcely any is more welcome and profitable than alfalfa. It is a forage crop that has demonstrated its veridical value in every state where it has been acclimated and intensively cultivated. In not a few western commonwealths it is as surely the C. O. D. crop as cotton is in the southern states. Even in Georgia it has shown ability to outfoot the staple in the market place.

The Georgia Bankers' association, on the alert to benefit the primary producers from the soil, have adopted alfalfa as a protegee and recommend it as a fortunate first aid to worried farmers. The State College of Agriculture, at Athens, recently carried out an alfalfa demonstration that was a genuine revelation of what that plant can do for the average Georgia farmer and all others allied in interest with his industry and prosperity.

It was shown that in 12 years the red clay hills of the college farm have produced four to five cuttings of alfalfa each year, giving a money return of $100 to $150 per acre annually. The crop takes little hand labor and every average farmer can handle five to ten acres without interfering with his cotton growing and so double his yearly net cash income.

Further, President Conwell, of the Georgia Cotton Cooperative association, testified that from seven acres of alfalfa he got from five to six cuttings of hay each year for five years, then broke the field for cotton and raised 19 bales on the seven acres—as much cotton in the one year after alfalfa as he raised in six years growing cotton continuously.

Such conditions that unless sympathy and gratitude aid them they cannot enjoy such a blissful reunion as that at Birmingham will be to them. Another year and fewer of these men will be alive to offer the like opportunity to the living.

Those are emphatic facts and should be drilled into the understanding of the farmers of the state. In alfalfa they have a "ready relief" more reliable and quickly profitable than is promised in any legislation by congress for government hand-outs.

Agriculture is the alpha of our national life and prosperity. We dare not neglect it. Every instinctive impulse of patriotism and self-preservation urges its conservation and protection. Something is radically wrong in the economic and political structure of the nation when the farmers, as a class, do not prosper.

Lacking, and properly lacking, subsidies and doles to balance deficits, he must be helped to help himself by the adoption of better-paying crops and methods. The advice to the Georgia farmer to adopt alfalfa and increase his cash income is safe and sensible. And now is his golden opportunity, for the Georgia college of agriculture pledges to send on request a specialist this spring to select land on the farms and tell the owner how to manage the crops. No wise farmer should miss this chance to get on easy street.

INSURE THE NATION.

There will be regret in national defense circles over the decision of the war department to omit the "defense test day" this year. The course of world events since the armistice of 1918, instead of diminishing fears of national security in any country, has rather increased them. Intelligent analysis of conditions on every continent cannot escape the conviction that there is "fire in the woods" of diplomacy and dynamite under the chamber of every chancellery of civilization. No man of them has courage to predict safety ahead of any nation.

The United States, more than any of the powers, needs to be in conditions of instant and adequate defense. We do not hunger to offend, or to spoil, any other people. Our settled policy has been always "to cultivate peace, amity and commerce" with all nations. But we have not been immune, for all our Quaker sentiments, from contrary and bellicose policies of other peoples. When they have not forced direct war upon us they have forced us into their conflicts to defend ourselves and vindicate our national honor.

We cannot know surely whether we are competent and well-equipped for our defense in any sudden emergency without a frequent stock review of our manpower, resources and armaments on land and sea. The option to hold such a review should not rest alone with a department official, but by legislation made his imperative duty. We should believe with George Washington and not be lulled by professional pacifists.

They say Mellon is the new Mark Hanna; but when and where does he set out the cornbeef hash?

Mussolini has made strikes criminal. He proposes to do all the mauling in Italy himself.

THE POSTER-MOTHER.
Mother I what glory wreathes thy name.
But name that honor the wide world pays
To her, when on her bosom,
God His soul-endowed flower lays.

When a woman takes a child,
Whose mother waits in Heaven above,
And makes that child an earthly home,
Blessed by her tender care and love.

Through such a foster-mother's heart
There flows an all-embracing love,
Of love, whose strength is so divine,
It sweeps all earthly bars aside.

No tongue can sing too great a praise,
No heart too deep a love can bear,
For her, not yet a mother,
A crown too bright for her to wear.

—ROSE HUBNER.
The Wilmington (Del.) Evening News has this new story of Shelly's domestic life.

Shelly's weakness about paying bills however is not the most interesting thing Miss Furnival remembers hearing her mother say about him. The doctor, she believed Shelly was a badly henpecked husband—henpecked by his second wife, and certainly not by his poor first wife.

"This little glimpse into the poet's domestic life is worthy of biographic note, for it reveals that in Shelly's time a man was believed to be henpecked when his wife merely requested him to fetch something. But what would Shelly think—and what would good Dr. Furnival think—of the return to earth and witness the home life of the modern American husband whose domestic activities extend to the very minutiae of his life?"

A Resurrection.
Awake to life, ye woodland bowers,
The springtime sun has brought you flowers.
Oh, let thy homing robin sing
And paens of joy and gladness bring.
For though the woods in death have lain,
Fair Spring has giv'n them birth again.

Awake to life, my sweetest heart,
Winter is gone and Spring is here.
Come give the rapture of thy voice
That all may hear and all rejoice.
Will not the power that raised the dead
Raise the loved dead of ours?

—ANNA THURMAN.
An Even Break.
"When we get ready to settle with our creditors for anything less than an even break," says The Brunswick Daily News, "we are shown, in automobiles or houses, our furniture, our silks and satins and start right from the ground again. Somehow our conscience will not let us put on appearance else. It is a slight touch of expense. There are a good many people who do not feel as does Editor Leary. They want to eat their cake and have it too, so their creditors just do the best they can and collect if possible."

No Picnic.
Springtime late
And a shiv'rin' day,
And they ain't no picnic
For sweet Miss May.

The wind blows cold
Round the frosty,
Good-by, my love,
With the rose—good-by!

ATLANTA FIRM BUILDS WRENS WATERWORKS

Wrens, Ga., May 6.—(Special)—Work has begun on the local water system which was authorized by a bond election held some months ago. J. B. McCarty & Co. have the contract and speedily completion of the system is promised. Six-inch mains are being laid in the central part of town and smaller conduits are being laid to all parts of the community.

An adequate standpipe will be erected near the artesian well from which the water will be lifted by an electrically operated pump. The engineers think that the well will furnish an abundance of water.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Interview the writer of a manuscript, which actually was a novel of rare passion and power. He had put it down as a best seller and probably the work of a woman of mature and worldly experience.

When a girl of 17 was ushered in he decided to discuss the book with her on the ground that she was not a fit person to debate such deep psychological woman's questions as were mentioned in the manuscript. He insisted that the author come herself.

"But I am the author," the astonishing young person replied; and the publisher then set immediately to work to invent a pen name for her which would take the public's fancy. He hit upon a name that is known practically all over the world today and that would be an open sesame to any publisher's office. For it's connected with at least a half dozen of the most popular novels dealing with intricate women's affairs.

One of the gents who sit on the aldermanic board in this town, who had the disagreeable experience recently of bumping into a couple of strolling lovers while driving home from a late session, in all seriousness, urged that a city-by-law be passed to compel late strollers to wear ear rings on their backs like motorcycles and automobiles. His proposal was not thrown out. It was laughed out. (Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution.)

WILKINS FLIGHT TO ARCTIC DELAYED
We must find the land before we name it.

When the statement was made that it will fly 400 miles north of Barrow, cruise east and west 200 miles and then return. The only statement I have ever heard regarding the flight of the expedition to the North American Newspaper alliance to the effect that it will fly northward. The weather and gasoline supply will be the course after we leave Barrow.

"There is no possible way to determine certainly how far northward we will go or what direction we will take on our way back. I haven't even advised Ben Eielson, my pilot. To find land is our first concern. To name it and to find the way back are questions to be decided later."

When the Detroit takes off for Barrow it will carry a supply of diphtheria antitoxin shipped in by the Federal government. The expedition, headed by Dr. James F. Varnum, minister of the Fairbanks Presbyterian church, assured me that no epidemic exists in Barrow, but that the mission board considered this a good opportunity to replenish its supply of antitoxin.

One nurse in the Barrow hospital has been ill with typhoid for several days. The medical board of the mission, has inoculated most of the natives against the malady and so far no other cases have developed. The expedition will be led by Dr. James F. Varnum, minister of the Fairbanks Presbyterian church, assured me that no epidemic exists in Barrow, but that the mission board considered this a good opportunity to replenish its supply of antitoxin.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST.
In the last chapter about hypothyroidism I described the vicious circle which carries victims on and on, with small chance ever to come back. The exhausted or weary condition of the thyroid function slows down metabolism, so that the individual's body temperature falls below the normal standard—it is usually a woman—becomes hypersensitive to cold—not more susceptible to any illness, but just "cold blooded" and therefore reasonably comfortable only when she wears a heavy coat and a warm blanket.

By Thursday night, three portentous events were standing out.
First, 20,000 labor more by laborite representatives failed.
Secondly, there were signs of disunion among laborites.
Finally, the government made known its decision to cease "playing with the strikers" and to repress all riots if they continue to multiply.

French Sailors Can Quit Prison, President Says

Emile Bourge and Pierre Prigent, convicted of smuggling aliens into the United States and now serving terms at the federal penitentiary here, will be released June 1, by presidential commutation of sentence, it was stated at the federal building Thursday. On release, the two men will be sent to Norfolk, Va., and from there deported to their homes in Marseilles, France, according to M. A. Coykendall, local immigration officer.

Bourge and Prigent were captain and chief engineer, respectively, of the P. L. M. steamer No. 23, which was docked at Norfolk, Va. Norfolk police picked up 14 aliens on the streets of the city, seeking a lodging house. Only one of the 14 could speak English. They were traced to the P. L. M. boat. The two officers then were convicted of smuggling aliens into this country and turning them loose in Norfolk.

Bourge and Prigent began service of their sentence on April 19, 1925. The commutation order will reduce their terms by about half, it was said.

What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar-coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at Jacobs Pharmacy Co., and all druggists—but be sure and ask for McCoy's—the original and genuine.

Give them to the sickly, frail child for 30 days and if they don't help wonderfully, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.—(adv.)

Eight Girls To Give Roses To Prisoners Mothers' Day

CHARLES N. WALKER. PRISON CHAPLAIN LADLOW.

Sunday will be Mothers' day, even in the Atlanta Federal penitentiary. Men behind those grim grey walls, who may seem to have forgotten the first lessons of childhood, will think again of their earliest homes this Sunday.

Eight little flower girls will enter the harsh prison gates at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning with arms full of red and white roses. The little ladies will stand in line as flower girls while 2,300 of the men—former bankers, millionaires, bootleggers, tramps, forgers, mail robbers, highwaymen, brokers, safe-blowers, the long gamut of guarded inmates—will pass from their cells and take a rose apiece from the children.

Red roses will be handed to the men whose mothers are alive. White roses will go to the men whose mothers have died.

This is the Third Time.

Sunday will be the third annual Mothers' day to be observed in this manner at the federal prison. The flowers have seemed to do so much good; the men have looked with such sudden, unexpected smiles upon these fragrant blossoms brought by little children from the great outdoors, that Warden Snook and Prison Chaplain Ladlow, have arranged with Charles N. Walker, well known religious worker of Atlanta, for the celebration again this year. Dr. C. R. Stauffer, former pastor of the Ninth Street Christian church, Washington, D. C. and now of the First Christian church of Atlanta, will deliver a short sermon. These services were conducted last year by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Meminger, of Atlanta.

Roses for the men now have proved so popular at the prison here that the custom has spread to other prisons in other states. Warden John Snook, who as a former member of the Idaho legislature, introduced the bill authorizing observance of Mothers' day in Idaho, has been congratulated on the efficient conduct of the penitentiary and of the discipline enforced there. He has given official approval to the distribution of flowers—a ceremony which, he stated Thursday, did much good in the prison last year.

Citizens in Charge. Distribution of the flowers will be directed by Mrs. Charles N. Walker and Mrs. F. E. Maffett, assisted by Mrs. C. R. Stauffer, Mrs. Walter Jamieson, Mrs. S. E. Roberts, Mrs. T. F. Hemminger, Mrs. Malcolm Fleming and Mrs. Charles F. Parish. The flower girls will be Misses Elizabeth Norris, Charlotte Burnett, Mary Maffett, Vera May Wall, Lois Bolles, Co. Kimball and Harriett Tate.

A musical program will follow the address by Dr. Stauffer. Mrs. T. A. Northern, interior decorator, has donated her services to decorate the stage.

Flowers also will be sent to Grady hospital patients, disabled veterans and persons in other institutions in and around Atlanta. Mr. Walker is being assisted by T. F. Hemminger and persons desiring to contribute roses are asked to call Hemmick 2006 or bring them to 277 Virginia avenue.

LEAP FROM WINDOW OF BLAZING HOUSE SAVES GIRL'S LIFE

Miss Martha Malone, of 89 Rawlins street, narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday morning when she leaped from a second-story window of the blazing home of friends at 507 Edgewood avenue. She suffered bruises and cuts about the body. Miss Malone was visiting Mrs. Adon Bradley, occupying the front room. When she discovered the fire, the only means of egress was from the window. Mrs. Bradley was preparing to leap when she was rescued by J. M. McMillan, a neighbor, with a ladder.

Miss Malone is the daughter of Policeman R. E. Malone. It is believed the fire was caused by a short circuit.

RIFFIAN PEACE CONFERENCE ENDS

Oujda, May 6.—(AP)—The negotiations for the settlement of the war in Morocco have come to an end, and the Spanish and French governments will again take up arms against the warring tribesmen.

Eighty thousand French troops are in line along the Ouergha river, facing the north, and 30,000 Spaniards stretching to the south from Melilla nearly to Sidi Bouredda and facing the west, are prepared to march forward within a few days with the purpose of convincing Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian chieftain, and his 30,000 warriors, of whom 8,000 are regulars, that the terms of peace offered to him at Camp Berteaux on April 18 were right and that he was wrong in refusing them after three weeks' negotiations.

Si Mohammed Azekane, Cheddi and Haddou Ben Hannou, the three Riffian delegates, have returned to Temansit, the present capital of the Rif, to carry the message of war to their chief.

The general feeling here seems to be that France and Spain have shown much patience in dealing with the Riffians in the series of discussions. Abd-el-Krim alone has failed to make any concessions. The conclusion is drawn that war is necessary for him to maintain his hold on the tribes; peace would see him returned to the rank of a chieftain.

Decatur, Ga., May 6.—(Special).—Decatur may have a modern moving picture theater soon if the city commission issues a permit for the building to be erected on Sycamore street, near the corner of Church street.

Names of the persons interested in building the theater have not been disclosed. If erected, this would be Decatur's first theater.

Ninetieth Year Of Life Entered By Dr. Connally

Dr. E. L. Connally, pioneer citizen of Atlanta, began Thursday the 90th year of his life. He celebrated the happy occasion by throwing open his famous old home, "Homestead," on Ashby street, in West End, to hosts of friends who seized the opportunity to call and pay him honor and wish for him and Mrs. Connally many more years of happy residence in this city which loves them so well.

Dr. Connally is the oldest living alumnus of the Atlanta Medical school. He was born in 1837 at the old Connally home place near East Point. He served in the war between the states with distinction as assistant surgeon of the First Regiment of the Confederate army.

In 1874 Dr. Connally married the daughter of Georgia's famous war governor, Joseph E. Brown. There were six children born, three daughters and one son now living in Atlanta. One daughter died in childhood and the eldest son, Captain Joe Brown Connally, gave his life in the world war.

The Atlanta children are Mrs. John Spaulding, Mrs. H. Warner Martin, Mrs. Hal Hentz and Thomas W. Connally.

Dr. and Mrs. Connally have not missed a season of Metropolitan opera in Atlanta during the 16 years of that institution. Both are well-known figures to nearly everyone who goes to the auditorium during the famous opera week each spring.

United States Steel corporation for April to be published next week would show a shrinkage of around 375,000 tons because of the wide spread between production and new business. Special strength of Sloss Sheffield, which jumped over five points to 121, was based on the belief that the company would benefit by the curtailment of pig iron shipments from Great Britain to this country. United States Steel common closed a point higher at 122 3/4.

Various rumors were heard in connection with the activity in the public utility issue, including predictions of an early supreme court decision.

Crackers Rout Chickasaws in First of Series, 7 to 5

Cliff Markle Hurls Locals To Victory Over Memphis Club

Atlanta Downs Visitors In Debut Here—Two Pitchers Used Against Crackers In Attempt To Defeat Niehoffians In Fast Contest.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Taking advantage of every opportunity and hitting in the pinches, Bert Niehoff's Atlanta Crackers came to life Thursday afternoon after having been in a listless frame of mind for the past two days, and won the first of a three-game series from Clyde Milen's Memphis Chickasaws by a 7-to-5 score. The Crackers were outbatted by five safeties, but the 40 hits secured by the home side were well grouped, only five Crackers being left stranded on the bases.

Memphis hit Cliff Markle, Cracker drop-ball ace, in every inning for a total of fifteen safeties, but sparkling fielding on the part of his mates pulled him out of danger several times, and during the latter stages of the game, Hollis McLaughlin was on the sidelines warming up. Bill Watson, recruit infielder signed Monday afternoon, played the leading role in the Cracker victory Thursday. Watson played a great game, handling 11 chances without an error and contributing two hits and two runs to the cause.

Durocher, Smith Hurt. Leo Durocher, Cracker shortstop, was spiked on the left leg in the eighth inning as Jenkins slid into second base, but after his injury was dressed he resumed play. The extent of the cut was not known Thursday afternoon, but it is not expected to keep him out of the lineup. Red Smith suffered a slight injury to his leg in the third inning and was relieved by Fraser. With Smith and Durocher on the temporary injured list, four Crackers are now ailing. Gilbert is out with a charley horse and Love is not in the best of condition.

The locals started the fireworks in the first inning after Memphis had scored one run in their half of the opening frame. Watson greeted Morton with a single to left field. Smith worked the Memphis hurler for a free ticket. Good grounded to Schmandt and Smith was forced at second, while Watson continued on to third. Haas, whose hitting of late has been none to good, hit a long single to right field that scored Watson and sent Good to second. Niehaus and Brock were retired on easy grounders. Another run was scored in the second inning when Durocher singled after Niehoff had flied out, went to second on a sacrifice, and scored on Watson's clean single to left field.

Four runs were annexed by the

Jones Tries Tennis On Board Aquitania; Practices Tee Shots

As Tennis Star, Bobby is Good Golfer—Loses to Ouimet and Gardner—"Eating Everything in Sight," Says Ouimet.

BY FRANCIS OUIMET.

By Radio to the Associated Press.

On Board the S. S. Aquitania, May 6.—Last night it looked as though we were running into a storm, but when the members of the Walker cup golf team awoke this morning the sun was shining and warm weather greeted us. That was the signal for summer things and the members of the team put on their lightest clothing.

Deck tennis and shuffle board used up the greater part of the morning. Bob Gardner and the writer teamed well enough to defeat Bobby Jones and Roland Mackenzie by a score of 100 to 53.

Another game, called giant polo, proved to be popular as well as strenuous and for those who think themselves overweight, I recommend this pastime. A ball is set up on a board, the object being to knock it into the opponent's court and then through a hole at the back end, each player using a stick similar to a golf shaft. For conditioning and excitement purposes it beats anything I ever saw.

SPEED QUEEN WILL ARRIVE HERE TODAY

Mademoiselle Joan LaCosta, "queen of speed," whose entry in the auto races at Lakewood track Saturday, May 15, has been protested by Louis Diabrow and other male drivers, will arrive in Atlanta early this morning to appear before the racing board of the track to defend her rights and insist that her entry not be cancelled.

Representing Atlanta club and professional women who have taken a stand with Mademoiselle LaCosta, Mrs. Edgar Alexander, national democratic executive committeewoman from Georgia, and Miss Susie Wallis, president of the women's division of the chamber of commerce, will meet Mademoiselle LaCosta when she arrives from Montgomery, where she has been resting preparatory to a race there next Wednesday.

At a special meeting of Miss Wallis and other executives of the women's division yesterday, Miss Wallis was authorized to register an official protest against any action tending to deny women the same rights as men on the Lakewood track.

The racing board of the track, comprising Arthur Brooks, president; Oscar Mills, secretary, and Ivan E. Allen, chairman of the executive board, will meet at 10 o'clock today to act formally on the question of women race drivers.

Sullivan Victorious Over Lou Gugliemini In Thrilling Battle

Larry Ayers Gets Decision Over Dave Eddleman—Corbett Knocks Out Karst in Second—Hollis Wins by Aggressive Tactics.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

While frenzied fans yelled their lungs sore, Hollis Sullivan, the Don Quixote of Marietta, met Lou Gugliemini, the windmill of Charlotte, at the auditorium Thursday night, and unlike the Don Quixote of opera fame, came off winner in a fast 10-round go, according to two judges and Referee Hanlon.

After the first round or two Hollis carried the fight to the sturdy little Italian and though the great experience of Gugliemini counted for something in his defensive efforts, Sullivan won a clean decision by virtue of his superior hitting ability and aggressiveness.

Some fans who disagreed with the judges' decision (and there were some who did, judging from the uproar at the end of the bout) must take into consideration the fact that Gugliemini was fighting a defensive fight most of the time in the last few rounds and when he did crawl out of his shell to lead, his blows rained ineffectually on Hollis' arms and shoulders for the most part. Lou is a master at covering up, and he had Sullivan tied up most of the time, though in many cases the Italian was leaning on Hollis in self-defense to recover from wicked jabs to the head and wind.

Gugliemini's strategy. In the ninth round Sullivan landed two crosses which had the Italian a little croaky, but by superior ring generalship, Gugliemini succeeded in tying Hollis up to recover from the jolts.

The first round went to Gugliemini, as did the fifth and sixth, while Hollis was master in the second, third, fourth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

Joe Stecher Signs To Meet Londos Here on May 19

Contos Guarantees Champ $10,000 to Risk Title Against Greek

Atlanta Promoter Outbids Philadelphia, New York, St. Louis, And Other Cities For Match—Contract Signed Thursday.

BY KENNETH SAPP.

A $10,000 guarantee—the largest ever offered any athlete to appear in Atlanta—has won Joe Stecher, champion wrestler of the world, over for a match with Jimmy Londos, the Greek champion, at the auditorium on the night of Wednesday, May 19. This was the word passed out Thursday by John Contos, who, in the short space of a few months, has raised wrestling from a much-lauged-at sport in Atlanta to a leading attraction.

Contos' announcement came like a bolt from the blue, as on Wednesday, no possibility of the promoter getting

PETRELS BEAT NAVAL NINE BY 10-6 COUNT

Pensacola, Fla., May 6.—(Special.) After losing to Auburn by an 8-to-2 count Wednesday, Oglethorpe invaded Florida today and took the first game of a three-game series from the U. S. Naval Air Station by a 10-to-6 count.

Garlington, on the mound for the Petrels, pitched superb ball, allowing only five hits. Errors by his mates accounted for several of the air station's runs.

Chestnut shone with the willow for the Oglethorpe aggregation, cracking out three hits in five trips to the plate. Score by innings: R. E. E. Oglethorpe...003 023 110—10 14 5 U. S. N. A. S. ...200 010 030—6 5 2 together with Stecher on a price agreement. The champ was insistent in demand for $15,000 to meet Londos, the most feared of his challengers, and payment of that amount could not be justified regardless of the fact that the match practically assures a capacity house.

Landing of the match for Atlanta was even more unexpected because it was known that Philadelphia was offering huge amounts to both mat artists to meet in that city in June as the feature of the sequentennial exposition, and New York, St. Louis, and several other large wrestling centers, also were after the attraction.

However, the Atlanta promoter, by a smart move, recently obtained Londos' signature to a contract which prevents his wrestling in any other city before he shows here.

Stecher didn't give Contos final word that he would come here on the 19th, until late Thursday afternoon when, in a long distance telephone conversation from Minneapolis, the match was confirmed. The match will mark the second appearance of the titholder in Atlanta recently, as he defended the championship successfully against Stanislaus Zyzanski here last month. The match will be three out of three falls.

It was only Contos' persistence and faith in this city that will give Atlantans an opportunity to see what should be the finest match staged anywhere in recent years. Ten thousand dollars is a lot of money to anybody—even Contos—and the big guarantee certainly is an indication of his confidence in Atlanta sport fans.

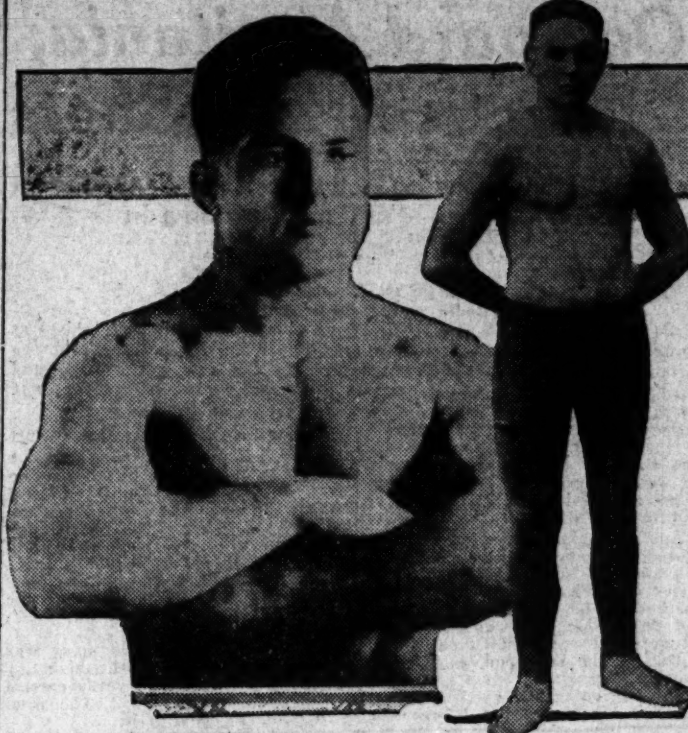

Will Be Fourth Meeting. In three meetings with Stecher, Londos has never succeeded in registering a victory, but in their last match he scored a fall over the champion and newspaper reports state that Stecher slipped off the mat 14 times in that bout to stave off defeat.

Londos, when here recently, urged the promoter to land Stecher for him and promised to throw him twice.

"Joe is not the grappler he once was, in my opinion," Londos said. "He has seen long service on the mat and some of his old energy is gone. In our match in St. Louis I came within an inch of taking his title, and I am superbly confident of winning if we ever meet again."

For a match of this magnitude it is a foregone conclusion that the auditorium will be filled to capacity and then some, one reason being the great popularity of Londos here. In order to care for those who wish to purchase their seats in advance, Contos intends to open a downtown booth.

MATCHED AT LAST

Two of the world's greatest wrestlers, Jim Londos, left, and Joe Stecher, right, have been matched for a bout here May 19, for one of the biggest matches ever to be staged here. Lower left is John Contos, promoter who has faith enough in Atlanta to guarantee Joe Stecher, world's champion, $10,000 to wrestle Londos here. Contos has brought the wrestling game in Atlanta up to a drawing attraction through his confidence in the people here.

Decatur forfeited to Marist. Smoky Green did the hurling for University and held the opposing slugger down to a few scattered hits. Brenny Winn, on the mound for Boys' High, failed to stop the onslaught of the Bluebirds' hitters, who put the ball out into the green for many hits and counted for 18 runs. The features of the game were home runs knocked by Wilkins and Davenport and a three-base hit by McGaughey, the Boys' High slugger.

Three pitchers were used against the Tech High sluggers by Fulton High in an effort to hold down the score, but were unable to stop the Smithies. Appling's home run was the only tally made by the county boys. Hawkins pitched a tight game, allowing the Fulton sluggers only five hits.

fourth, seventh and ninth. The first and eighth were even. Larry Avera, of Atlanta, and Dave Eddleman, of Charlotte, milled ten rounds of fast fighting prior to the Sullivan-Gugliemini bout, and Avera managed to take a decision at the hands of Referee Eddis Hanlon by dint of his aggressiveness. Larry was hard put from start to finish and by the time Dave has had a few more years' experience, he will be a dangerous man for anybody to take on. Eddleman rocked the Atlanta boy several times with a wicked right but Larry's footwork saved him from a knockout. Larry took the first, third, seventh and tenth rounds while Dave took the second, fifth and ninth. The other three rounds were even. Jimmy Goldsmith refereed the two preliminary bouts. Goldsmith, well-known sportsman, and Ed Danforth, sports writer, acted as judges for the final battle.

the East Lake course, by defeating Mrs. L. W. Grenade, 6 up and 5 to play, in the first flight final. In the second flight, Mrs. William Lohse won from Mrs. Cyrus W. Strickler by the same score—6 and 5. Handicaps forced Mrs. Grenade to give Mrs. Doak six strokes, while Mrs. Strickler "spotted" her opponent four.

Mrs. Doak took the lead at the fourth hole and was ahead for the rest of the way. She was two up at the turn and won the next four holes to take the match. Mrs. Lohse was five up at the turn and ended the match on the 12th green.

The second round of medal play for the women's southern handicap for members of the East Lake club will be played today, and other rounds will be played on Tuesday and Friday of next week and on Monday, May 17, one round already having been played. The player with the best three cards of the five, with handicaps applied, will win a gold pin presented to each member club by the Women's Southern Golf association.

Oh, what we know about you!

IN the many years we have been rendering service to you motorists of Atlanta we've learned a lot of things about you.

We know for instance that when you drive into a filling station you don't expect to spend the day there, but wish to get in, get out and be gone. So every employee of the Reed Oil Company "snaps into it" as soon as you roll up alongside of the pumps.

We know that you appreciate little courtesies and friendliness, so you get them here. We're tickled to death to help you in any way we can. We know that you expect a full dollar's worth for the dollars you spend, so we go you one better and give you in Blu Streak gasoline, the highest mileage bargain you'll find in town; and in Hyvis Motor Oil a couple of hundred extra miles of service.

Breakfast Smiles

Foods That Win Them

By JENNY NOURSE Domestic Science Expert

Brain—eat it and love it this way—get Puffed Wheat

HERE'S a cereal with approximately 20% bran, yet you would never know it.

It's called Puffed Wheat—a unique cereal food. There is no other like it. It tastes like toasted nuts, crunches in the mouth like fresh toast; you'll find it as enticing as a confection.

It's whole wheat steam exploded to 8 times its natural size, then deliciously oven toasted. Different in flavor and form from any other cereal, it supplies the great advantage of a change at breakfast to keep the appetite keen.

You eat it because you love it, not merely because it is "good" for you. Contains vital wheat elements essential to health, digests quickly because every food cell is steam broken.

Obtain Puffed Wheat at any grocery. Serve at breakfast tomorrow, or as a bedtime snack tonight. You will be delighted.

Mrs. Theodore Birney's Memory Observed.

The memory of Mrs. Theodore Birney, of Marietta, founder of the P. T. organization, was observed with impressive ceremony by the planting of a live oak tree in Memory Grove in Piedmont park Thursday morning.

Forty-nine state presidents represented, the presidents wearing robes of blue tied with gold cord, this being the P. T. A. colors. The robes of the escorts were of gold cambric tied with blue cords and they wore bands of blue ribbons on their heads—the escorts for the national president each carried a banner, one with "Parent" on it; the other with "Teacher."

Each president brought a spadeful of dirt from her native state, the soil being carried in blue and gold bowls and was placed around the tree. These vessels were painted by the Atlanta children in public schools under Miss Mildred Smith, supervisor of art. The bowls were made of Georgia clay and made by the pottery on Pace's Ferry road. Mr. Fred Stewart had charge of the program.

Mrs. Tufts Issues Notice to Delegates

One of the serious problems of local P. T. A.'s has been to get members and officers to transact and pass on national and state literature. The national office has on exhibit in the committee hall books which demonstrate the most practical way to do this.

Let me urge every president, chairman and particularly every program chairman, to visit the exhibition room and get literature that will be helpful in putting the true parent-teacher spirit into programs for local associations. Orders are being taken for material in large quantities. Let me urge members to buy in convention hall a handbook and study P. T. A. policies.

MRS. ARTHUR TUFTS, President DeKalb County Council.

Mrs. Willett Honors Prominent Visitors

One of the loveliest affairs on Thursday's social calendar was the informal tea at which Mrs. Lawrence Willett was hostess at her home on The Prado in compliment to her mother, Mrs. Archibald P. Brantley, of Blackshear, and her aunt, Mrs. Blewett Lee, of New York.

Mrs. James Ragan and Mrs. Prince Webster assisted Mrs. Willett in receiving her guests.

An attractive arrangement of spring flowers, with the shades of pink and lavender predominating, adorned the reception apartments of the home.

A silver basket filled with lavender and pale pink roses formed the centerpiece of the lace-covered tea table. Tall lavender tapers burned in silver candlesticks and silver compotes held pink and lavender mints.

Mrs. Willett received her guests wearing a becoming gown of apricot chiffon.

Mrs. Brantley was handsomely gowned in black lace, and Mrs. Lee's costume was of blue flowered chiffon.

Art Meeting May 8

Members of the Atlanta Art association are requested to attend a called meeting in the directors' room of the Fulton Nationalbank Saturday morning, May 8, at 11 o'clock, to discuss a matter of great importance.

J. CARROLL PAYNE,
President.

Lovely Affairs Given Visitors in City.

Among the lovely affairs accorded the wives of the delegates attending the American Hardware Manufacturers' association convention convening at the Atlanta Biltmore was the elaborate luncheon at the Atlanta Woman's club on Thursday at 12:20 o'clock.

Mrs. Irving Thomas introduced the ladies and acted as efficient toastmistress for the luncheon.

Mrs. George King is the official hostess for the Atlanta women who are entertaining the visiting ladies.

Assisting Mrs. King are: Mrs. W. A. Parker, Mrs. William Akers, Mrs. S. C. Dinkins, Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. T. J. Holleman and Mrs. Irving Thomas.

In the afternoon the wives were entertained at a card party at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. Three grand prizes were awarded. They were a platinum and diamond wrist watch, a platinum and diamond brooch pin, and a diamond brooch pin.

In addition to the grand prizes there was an attractive box on each table containing a bottle of Coty's extract to be awarded the winner at each table.

After an afternoon of bridge, the ladies were joined on the terrace by the men for a tea-dance at 6 o'clock.

In the evening the delegates and their wives and the Atlanta members were present at the performance of the Howard theater. A special program was arranged for the Hardware Manufacturers' association, in their honor.

The convention ends socially Thursday evening; there will be a few business meetings on Friday morning, however.

JOHN BYRLEY JOINS AVONDALE ESTATES

Announcement was made Thursday of the connection of John H. Byrley, one of the most widely-known life insurance men in the United States and more recently a highly successful real estate operator in the Florida field, with the organization of Avondale Estates, Atlanta's new $10,000,000 suburban city, in which he assumes the position of general manager.

At the same time it was announced that $220,000 in sales of homes and building lots had been made in the five weeks since the second unit of the property was opened March 20. These sales are at the rate of $2,000,000 a year, a fact reflecting keen interest in the development, inasmuch as the year's quota of sales is $1,000,000.

Mr. Byrley formerly was vice president of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, in which capacity he had part in establishing most of the agency branches of that company in the United States. He relinquished this post to assume management of the company's general agency for the southeastern states, and with Atlanta as his headquarters became one of the outstanding figures in the insurance field here.

Mr. Byrley became recently active in the real estate field, a year ago purchasing an interest in Boca del Faro, Inc., an ocean-front development near Miami, regarded as one of the most successful properties on the east coast, in which sales of more than $1,000,000 were recorded in the last year. Mr. Byrley will retain this interest, giving it his time during the winter while devoting his time to the Avondale Estates.

In addition to the direction of sales and general activities, Mr. Byrley will be vice president and general manager of a financing and building organization subsidiary to and independent of Avondale Estates, which is owned by G. E. F. Willis.

This subsidiary organization will have for its purpose the arrangement of building operations in Avondale Estates, of loans, insurance and other details of finance incidental to home building. It is designed to make more efficient the Avondale home-building plan under which builders or purchasers of homes in the new suburb are assured of great saving.

Under this new arrangement Mr. Byrley will relieve Mr. Willis, his brother-in-law, of much responsibility in direction of the huge program of building the city of 15,000 population, which is the destined goal of Avondale Estates. He will take charge of the recently announced $1,000,000 building and development program.

BANK MANAGER SHOTS BANDIT AND REGAINS LOOT

Boston, May 6.—(AP)—Lawrence S. Bearse, a bank manager who had never before fired a revolver, today shot down and probably fatally injured a robber who had held up the Upham Corner branch of the First National bank.

George Mastoris, of Boston, had obtained $5,400 from a teller at the pistol point when the interior of the bank was changed to an inferno of barking pistols and flying lead as bank employees and a policeman engaged him in battle.

More than 20 shots were fired before Bearse shot Mastoris in the head as he crawled from behind a barricade carrying his loot toward the door.

A score of employees and a half dozen customers were in the bank as Mastoris entered, pointing a pistol and shouted:

"Everybody hold up your hands. I haven't shot a man for five years. I want some money. You can't get it working."

5 MINERS KILLED AND 4 INJURED IN GAS EXPLOSION

Pottsville, Pa., May 6.—(AP)—Five miners were killed and four injured by an explosion of gas in the south Pennsylvania colliery late today. Two of the injured were hurt seriously.

Those who lost their lives were William Coulson and his son, Albert; Edward Green, Bruno Trycko and Albert Brimbo.

First reports were that a number of workers had been entombed and the head of the shaft soon was surrounded by weeping women and children.

Colliery officials, however, issued a statement that all had been accounted for. Rescue parties reached the dead and injured without difficulty.

The explosion was said to have been caused by the discharge of dynamite in a gas laden atmosphere.

THREE MEN DROWN WHEN AIRPLANE CAPSIZES IN RIVER

Philadelphia, May 6.—(AP)—Three civilian employees in the naval aircraft factory at the Philadelphia navy yard were drowned today when an aluminum hull of an airship capsized in the Delaware river. The hull was completed today and, in tow of a light steamer off the navy yard, was being tested for water tightness.

Sixteen men were aboard the hull and all were thrown into the river. Quick action of the crew of the steamer saved 13 of them. Those lost were W. Morgan, sheet metal worker; A. Renzi and B. Langley.

The hull was that of one of the new "PN" super-airships under construction at the navy yard. It is to be a sister ship to the PN-9.

LIBERAL LOSES TO CONSERVATIVE IN COMMONS FIGHT

London, May 6.—In the first and only election in England since the strike began, Major Braithwaite, a conservative, defeated his liberal and labor rivals handily and won a seat in the house of commons.

Braithwaite polled 12,080 votes while Sir Harry Werners, the liberal, received 10,537 and Mr. Laycock, the labor candidate, only 2,191.

Eighty-two per cent of the electorate voted despite strike conditions. The seat was that of Sir Guy Gaunt, conservative from the Buckrose division of Yorkshire, who retired.

Tear Bombs Prove Fatal To Young Girl Prisoner

Scranton, Pa., May 6.—Julia Sanko, a 15-year-old girl prisoner who was about to become a mother, died in a hospital here after tear bombs had been thrown into her cell at the Lackawanna county jail to quiet her, it was disclosed Thursday.

George Benore, a deputy warden, admitted throwing the tear bombs.

Dr. D. J. Jenkins, the coroner, performed an autopsy which showed congestion in the girl's lungs. Although he has not yet announced the cause of death, he said he didn't believe the tear bombs had anything to do with it.

Morgan Thomas and Louis Von Bergen, members of the prison board who were apprised of the strange death by newspaper reporters Thursday morning, have begun an investigation.

Warden David Jones confirmed the report that tear bombs had been thrown into the girl's cell, and admitted that "George gave her a little gas treatment."

Julia became hysterical in her cell Monday, screaming to be freed. Benore threw the tear missiles into the cell and she became quiet in a few minutes. Tuesday she became very ill and was taken to the State hospital, where she died in a few hours.

Thomas and Von Bergen were not notified by prison officials, and knew nothing of the death when they were in the courthouse this morning. When newspapermen asked them what they would do in the matter they admitted they had heard nothing about it.

The girl had pleaded guilty to robbing a fellow prisoner while being detained at police headquarters.

She was known as a "bad girl" in Scranton, having given authorities considerable trouble during the last few years.

She was first committed to St. Joseph's foundling home as an incorrigible. Later she was transferred to an institution for older girls. Still later she was sent to another home.

GEORGIA SOLONS DISCUSS FARM AID

Washington, May 6.—(Special.)—Members of the Georgia delegation in the house discussed pending agricultural legislation for nearly three hours at a special meeting here Wednesday night.

In an effort to determine what course should be pursued. The majority opinion was in favor of supporting the Hagen bill, provided that the equalization fee, which is to take effect in two years, is removed entirely from the bill.

It was pointed out that the board of 12 set up in the Hagen measure would include only three representatives of the cotton states, and that the cotton states would thus be at the mercy of other sections in the levying of an equalization fee. Opposition to the equalization fee principle was pronounced among members of the delegation.

Many Interesting Women Attend P. T. A. Convention

Mrs. Laura Underhill Kohn, national chairman of publicity for the National Parent-Teacher association, which is holding its 30th annual convention in Atlanta this week, has worked out the most marvelous plan to further the interest of parent-teacher standards. Her press feature is being exhibited in the roof garden at the Ansley hotel, and is well worth inspection. From her farmhouse, "Furnace Brook," three miles out from Peekskill, N. Y., Mrs. Kohn directs and perfects through letters, telephone and telegraph, the system she has perfected and requests every state in the union to follow, and her successful result in publicity is an outstanding achievement. Mrs. Kohn is thoroughly interested in placing the activities of this splendid organization before the public, and she understands and knows to what extent every state functions.

From Las Vegas, N. M., comes Mrs. A. A. Halbert, as a delegate to the national convention with the title of vice president of the New Mexico P. T. A., and has held the president's office of the University of New Mexico association for three years. She brought a series of folders from Mayor Thomas Truder to Mayor Sims, of Atlanta, outlining the compelling charm and attractions of her city and state. Mrs. Halbert's daughter, Miss Gaynelle Halbert, is a student in the junior high department of the university. Among Mrs. Halbert's most successful undertakings has been welfare work with Spanish-American children. Formerly from New Orleans, she is a granddaughter of the late Joseph C. Harrison, whose ships piled the Mississippi, and was prominent in his day among ship owners.

Mrs. C. L. Haywood, of Durham, N. C., is president of the Durham Parent-Teacher council, a member of the state board, and state chairman of home education, having been accredited with establishing in all state organizations a home education chairman. Mrs. Haywood firmly believes in the importance of the home and its value to the nation, having worked with that as her example throughout her many period of years' association with parent-teacher work. She has a son, C. L. Jr., studying medicine at Harvard; a daughter, Miss Zola Lee, who is a junior at Hollins college; and another son, Elbert, is a junior in the Durham Senior High school.

It is no wonder that the educational program for the state of Texas is foremost and worth imitating, since the wife of the Texas state school superintendent is no other than Mrs. S. M. M. Marrs, another national vice president. Mrs. Marrs is an able, active, and capable and attractive wife in giving to that great state of Texas the very best educational facilities.

MRS. HORACE DODGE WILL BE MARRIED TO HUGH DILLMAN

Detroit, May 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, widow of the automobile manufacturer, will be married here Saturday to Hugh Dillman, former actor of New York city and Palm Beach, friends were informed late today. The ceremony will be held at the home of Mrs. Dodge's only son, Horace E. Dodge, at Grosvenor Pointe, a suburb.

The guests will be limited to Mrs. Dodge's son, her son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Crowell, of New York city, and a few other intimate friends and relatives.

Dr. Samuel Forrer, pastor of the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian church of Detroit, of which Mrs. Dodge is a member, will perform the ceremony.

STATE TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF KING

Louisville, May 6.—(AP)—The commonwealth introduced more testimony when the trial of Winfred "Geta" King, 35 years old, and his wife, Mrs. George King, 26, in the alleged theft of $2,300 worth of jewelry from H. W. Garrett, an Atlanta salesman, was resumed in criminal court this morning.

Garrett, who was found badly beaten and wandering in a stupor March 9, identified the pair as persons with whom he was automobile riding at the time he was beaten and robbed. He said he met Mrs. King at a hotel and went with her to a dance hall and then to a house where Mrs. King introduced King as a friend. They went riding.

Other witnesses corroborated Garrett's testimony.

TIGER GIRL TRUE TO ACCUSED HUSBAND

Baltimore, Md., May 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Harris Whittemore, the "Tiger Girl," is standing by her husband, Richard Reese Whittemore, bandit gang leader and alleged slayer, in his attempt to cheat the Maryland noose. She has twice visited him in the Baltimore city jail where he is in solitary confinement, the sole occupant of a new cell block, under triple lock.

Mrs. Whittemore and her father-in-law, John Rawlings Whittemore, are the only persons who have visited the "Candy Kid" since his return here from New York last week. Her requests for visiting permits have been granted promptly by State Attorney Herbert R. O'Connor. Whittemore is scheduled for arraignment next Monday.

Professor Failed To Send Children To School, Fined

New York, May 6.—"Look at me today," Magistrate Gordon, of the municipal term court, proudly, "I'm a judge."

Magistrate Gordon was fining Professor and Mrs. Thomas Thivierge $10 for failing to send their daughters, aged 7 and 8, to public school in one of the toughest sections of the city.

Mrs. Thivierge testified that she and Professor Thivierge had taught Lucie and Josephine Greek, Latin and French besides the regular school curriculum.

When the little girls had attended public school they had returned with bronchitis, pediculosis and memories of bad language.

Professor Thivierge testified that he was a former superintendent of schools of Biddeford, Maine, and a graduate of French and Canadian colleges.

"Madame," said Magistrate Gordon to Mrs. Thivierge, "our public schools are wonderful. I graduated from a public school and from city college and look at me today."

VANDERBILT HOPES TO SAVE PAPERS

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., announced tonight through his attorney that negotiations were under way with two New York financial houses who have offered a plan to finance his three tabloid newspapers throughout their present difficulty.

In answer to reports that employees of The San Francisco Herald, temporarily suspended, would not receive back pay due them, Mr. Vanderbilt said he had reassured from his San Francisco business manager that there were sufficient accounts receivable to pay all labor claims.

"I am hopeful of being able to fight through the situation with the aid of ex-Mayor Snyder, of Los Angeles, temporary receiver of The Los Angeles News and by the good will of creditors and workers on all three papers," he said.

The principal creditors of The Miami Tab have extended our time for payment 90 days. Dudley Field Malone and I have been in conference with two very large financial houses in New York who, on their own initiative have laid before us a plan to finance the papers through the present difficulty.

SENATE PASSES VETERANS' BILL

Washington, May 6.—(Special.)—The bill recently introduced by Senator George, extending the time limit for the conversion of world war veterans' life insurance and the time in which such lapsed insurance might be reinstated has passed the senate.

Senator George is a member of the subcommittee having charge of war veterans' legislation. The committee bill was favorably reported by the full committee on finance and was promptly enacted by the senate.

Under this bill a form of insurance at very low rates is provided for an additional period of five years. All veterans of the world war holding insurance, and all veterans who have permitted their insurance to lapse, who are covered by this law, will have until December 31, 1926, to convert their insurance into the term insurance, provided in the bill just passed.

Senator George suggests that all veterans who have permitted their insurance to lapse, and those who have not yet converted their insurance, as required by the world war veterans' act of 1924, make application for the five-year term insurance provided in his bill. He stated that this bill will permit veterans to carry their insurance without any increase in premium rate during the next five-year period. The Georgia senator expressed confidence that the bill would speedily pass the house and become a law before the adjournment of congress.

The poppies are made by the disabled in veterans' hospitals, and will be sold during the period around Memorial day.

LABOR BOARD BILL CAUSE OF BATTLE

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—A row was precipitated in the senate today over whether the Watson-Parker railroad labor board protected the public interest.

Defending the measure, Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, declared railroad labor disputes had to be settled either by the "olive branch or the club," and preferred the former.

Doubting that the bill would protect the public, Senator Curtis, the republican leader, offered an amendment authorizing the I. C. C. to suspend or modify any wage agreement reached under its terms if it did not protect the public interest.

Public Interest.

"Where is the public interest protected in the bill?" asked Senator Curtis.

"By the board of mediation and the emergency board which would be composed of representatives of the public," replied the Indiana senator.

Opposition to the bill was expressed in a statement by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, who said he also spoke for a score of other roads.

Refers to England.

"In view of what is happening in England where there is a complete suspension of transportation resulting from a 'sympathetic' strike of railway workers," he said, "this country cannot afford to return railway labor disputes to the old mediation system which has so signally failed in the past."

Roads mentioned by Mr. Loree as those which he spoke for were the Delaware and Hudson; Chicago and Rock Island and Pacific; Main Central; Western Maryland; Virginian; Denver and Rio Grande Western; Rio Grande Southern; Texas and Pacific; St. Louis San Francisco; St. Louis Southwestern; Wabash; Missouri, Kansas-Texas; Kansas City Southern; Bangor and Aroostook; Chicago and Alton; Pere Marquette; Ann Arbor; Erie; Minneapolis and St. Louis; and Denver and Salt Lake.

Mother Slays Tots Then Self As Death Nears

Casa Grande, Ariz., May 6.—(AP)—A grim tale of triple death on the desert was unfolded near here with the finding of the bodies of Mrs. E. J. Cox and her two children, aged 6 years and 4 months.

The woman killed her children, she explained in a note, to keep them from starving to death on the desert and then ended her own life because she no longer could stand suffering resulting from a rattlesnake bite.

The woman's husband found the bodies at noon when he returned to the homestead, 23 miles southeast of here. Mrs. Cox had shot herself through the heart and a four page note to her husband explained her action.

Parts of the note were written Sunday, Monday and Monday night. Toward the last she apparently weakened to such an extent that the handwriting was almost illegible.

The note disclosed that Mrs. Cox was bitten on the foot by the reptile Sunday night. She finally slit the wound with a knife after home remedies failed to alleviate her suffering.

In so doing she severed an artery. Weakened by loss of blood, she was unable to crank an automobile to go for aid. She fired a rifle several times but this failed to attract the attention of neighbors, the closest several miles away. Frenzied by her suffering and believing herself to be dying, the note said, she finally shot the two children and then planned to end her life with the same weapon.

Cox had been working on a ranch a score of miles away and the woman said in her note that she feared the children would starve to death before he returned.

A FITTING POSTURE.

It was funny of Celia explaining this to James, whose tousled hair and dressing gown gave him such a wild, unfootman-like look. But she was thinking of Hilary and of how, when she should have gone away for the second time, he could say that she had gone to continue her broken visit. Afterwards . . . well, afterwards, he could plan things as he saw best.

"You must be awful tired, ma'am—and hungry," said James. "Will I bring up a tray to your room?"

"No, thanks," said Celia. "I had something to eat before I left. You can take my satchel up, though."

She moved toward the library door while speaking, and James hurried to open it for her.

She checked him, saying: "I'll open it myself, thanks. You can go now. Good night."

"Good night, ma'am," replied James, turning away.

She waited another moment, then put out her hand toward the door knob. But her hand came back and grasped its fellow convulsively. Her heart began to beat with quick, heavy strokes as it had done in the summer house, and her head felt very strange—quite empty and light as down.

She had unwound the gray veil as soon as she was sure that James had gone, and though she had discarded her ulster, she had kept on the burnt-orange coat. For an instant there in the lonely summer house of the Havelock Smiths temptation had assailed her—the temptation to reverse her "reversible" suit and travel back in subdued violet rather than in this glaring mandarin tint. But she had resisted; he should see her, body and soul, just as she was, absurd, foolish, a thing a laugh at rather than to be angry with. He wouldn't laugh at her openly, of course; he was too fine for that. . . . But he should see her like this, all the same. She couldn't atone, but she could humiliate herself. No saint was ever more eager for self-abasement than Celia Gibbs.

All that she could do, though, she told herself sorrowfully as she stood by the closed door trying to collect her wits, was to say plain words as quietly and quickly as possible.

She opened the door at length, turning the knob with slow, noiseless care, and went in. For a second or two she thought that she had been mistaken and that there was no light in the room. Then the darkness cleared from before her eyes, and she realized that she had just missed fainting.

And this wasn't the only shock she had, for when she looked about in search of Hilary she couldn't see him anywhere.

Her heart began to beat in that sickening way again. Why was she so afraid? Even if he wasn't there, he was quite safe . . . probably he had gone to bed, forgetting to put out the lamp.

There it was, burning with the steady light of oil, under its great shade of horn and ironwork. The fire, too, had evidently been mended only a short time ago. The logs were sending bright flickers into the dusky corners unlighted by the lamp.

She looked about the room anxiously, then gazed at the empty chair beside his writing table, then at the table itself. It was no longer littered with manuscript, but several big maps lay rolled and unrolled upon it.

She stole over to see what maps they were. That which lay spread out was a very fine and detailed map of the Caucasus. She saw by the squares into which it was divided that it was the sort of map used by travelers and backed with strong linen. A notebook lay upon it, and some unfamiliar volumes bound in calf at one side. Near them was a revolver. . . . Celia went cold, then hot with shame. For one supremely idiotic moment she had feared . . . she couldn't even admit to herself what it was that she had feared, for this ridiculous fear was surely the foot's-cap crown of her immeasurable absurdity. . . .

Standing by the table, she looked again round the quiet room. At last she saw him—that is, she saw the top of his head above the back of an arm chair near the fire.

Another moment went by before she could summon courage to creep softly over to where she could see more of him.

He was fast asleep, one arm bent under his head. She had never before seen him sleeping. His face looked sad, but very stern. He would look like that if he were dead, she thought. . . . aloof and unapproachable. . . . not so sad, perhaps. It was life that saddened people; death left them looking peaceful. Now he was frowning. It might be a dream of her that made him frown. She drew back out of sight shivering.

What must she do? She couldn't wake him. The shivering continued. Her whole body felt suddenly as fluent as water. If he didn't sit down she might faint away. Yet she felt that she couldn't sit down calmly in that room as though she had a right to be there.

She clung with both hands to his writing table, staring down at the open map and the revolver lying across one corner of it. What had he been studying a map of the Caucasus for? Was he going there?

The map clouded and swam before her eyes. She must sit down.

With a sudden movement she pulled off her orange coat and dropped it in the shadow beside the desk. She wasn't as strong of will, as sincere as she had believed. She would wait for him to wake, but she could not let him first see her in that orange coat. She stole back to the fireplace, having solved her difficulty as to how she would wait for him to wake. She would kneel there on the hearth rug. He should see her first on her knees . . . that was the fitting posture for Celia Gibbs in that house, in his presence.

She knelt, gazing up at him, her hands clasped hard together. The fire burned lower. On her wrist the little watch said a quarter to three. . . . Maybe he wouldn't wake till morning. . . . He turned his face to one side against his arm and sighed. . . . then frowned again.

ARMY CHAPLAIN
MEET DENOUNCES
"RADICAL PACIFISM"

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—Indicating the extreme of radical pacifism was denounced today by army reserve chaplain attending the non-denominational conference on the "betrayal of the duties of citizenship" which may "easily promote war and not peace."

An announcement of the conference's action, voted by representatives of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, said they must assert the duty of military service to the detriment of the duties of citizenship.

"But to ask inexperienced youths to commit themselves to such indiscriminate pacifism as never to enlist in the military defense of their country, the announcement added, is both illogical and unethical."

Amusements
Loew's Grand.

There is a real fun festival in progress this week at Loew's Grand theatre, where James Morton, famous comedian, and the Morton family are the headliners on the vaudeville bill. "Jim" Morton has been before the public as a laugh producer for a quarter of a century and he is now, with the assistance of his clever wife and daughter, one of the best comedians ever produced. Other acts on the Loew bill are: Will Rogers and his six "Charleston" girls in a dancing act; Browning and Bracken, blackface comedians; Betty Taylor and Louise Lake, girl singers; Katherine Sinclair and company in an acrobatic and foot juggling act; the Loew picture is Ibanez's "Torrent."

The Rialto.

Can you imagine what would happen to a freshman with senior ambitions? One doesn't have to be a college student or alumnus to make a pretty good guess that he's going to get a terrible razzing and be promptly put in his place. Such a first-year student is Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman," where he is rocking the very foundations of the Rialto.

"The Freshman" is accompanied by a high-class prologue that is full of entertainment. The Georgia Tech Glee club's famous band and quartet of singing football stars.

The Howard.

One of the most popular numbers of "The Burghouse Cabaret," John Murray Anderson's revue which is being presented at the Howard theatre this week, is the dancing of the Six English Tivoli Girls. These girls, Gertrude Carto, Valentine Barton, Ivy Carlington, Doreen Carlington, Dorothy Sheldon and Daisy Sheldon, are all from London.

"That's My Baby," Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount laugh feature, is an original story, written especially for MacLean by George J. Stone and Wade Boteler. It is a rapid-fire farce-comedy which maintains a high-pressure laugh tempo all the way through.
